PROPOSE TO DIVIDE DRAINAGE DISTRICT

Meeting in Clinton Monday Evening. Forming Test Associations.

E. R. Jones, Madison, college of agriculture, an engineer, will attend a meeting to be held in Clinton Monday night at which time the drainage of the so-called Nebraska district will be discussed. The state engineer will make a survey of the district during the afternoon to determine whether a certain part of the lands can be left off the drainage district in making an outlet for the water.

Because of the sentiment both for and against the proposed drainage project it is now proposed to divide up the district.

Members of the Rock county Short-horn association will be called in for a meeting next week to elect the organization of the Short-horn cow testing association. Only a few additional members are wanted to complete the circuit on a one day a month program.

Farm Associations will be organized next week for farmers in the Clinton and Johnston districts. There is to be a Farm Bureau meeting in Newark township Nov. 15. B. Hall, Johnston, is scheduled to speak.

Three important farm projects before Rock county farmers at the present time are the petition for county-wide tuberculous test, the organization of additional cow testing associations, and the listing of stock for sale.

That livestock show Every farmer, whether he is a beginner or not, is urged to send in a description of any livestock he has for sale. There are calls for a number of cows at the office of Secretary H. C. Henningsway and the county agent where the stock can be obtained.

"We are confident we can make more sales if the farmers will respond at once in listing their stock," it was stated. "We have men coming here looking for stock and it is a hard task to find what they want riding all over the county on a hit or miss plan. We would like a big list of stock early next week."

Sharon Man Loses 26 Holsteins Found To be Reactors

Sharon—Floyd Doan, residing south of town, had his 26 head of Holstein cows tested for tuberculosis. All but two were found to be suffering from the disease. They were taken to Chicago for slaughter. His father, Frank Doan, had his herd of 40 Ayrshires tested. But two were found to have tuberculosis.

Henry Parke Named On Stock Committee

Henry H. Parke, Genoa, Illinois, was elected secretary of the National Live Stock Producers' Association at the last meeting of the board of directors. Mr. Parke succeeds E. H. Cunningham, who resigned as secretary because of his recent election to the presidency of the U. S. Grain Growers' Association. Mr. Cunningham was induced to retain his place on the board of directors of the National Live Stock Producers' Association. Mr. Parke is a well-known figure in the farm bureau movement. It was behind Henry Parke's farm in Dekalb County that the first county Farm Bureau in Illinois was said to have been organized more than ten years ago. The National Board received new directors from various terminals as follows: E. C. Laster of Texas for Fort Worth; George Wilson of Illinois for Peoria; J. H. C. Laster of Illinois for Chicago; and H. C. McLaughlin of South Dakota for Sioux City. The National Board authorized steps for the establishment of a Producers Company at Cincinnati, O.

Michigan Holstein Sets New Milk Mark

Out goes another milk production record. Jolaine Marion Findeisen, owned by the Lock Farms, Charlevoix, Mich., has just finished a really record in which she produced 35,357.7 pounds of milk and 1,275.58 pounds of butter. Her record stands second only to the phenomenal production of Segis Pictoride, a Holstein, who produced 36,000 pounds of milk according to the Holstein-Friesian World.

RED CROSS GIVEN $3,000 BY CITY

Drive Ends Short of Quota—Bennett Thanks 200 Who Worked in Campaign.

The city Red Cross campaign is over with $2,950 raised and prospects of more subscriptions. Leo F. Bennett, city campaign chairman, thanks the 200 workers in the following statement:

"I take this opportunity to thank the many women of the city who so gladly and wholeheartedly helped in the Red Cross drive in Janesville. There were more than 150 women who gave considerable time to the work of the drive. The efficient organization among the women was due to the splendid work of the officers and their friends of the different Parent-Teachers organizations. While the amount raised was not quite up to our expectations I think we can congratulate ourselves on having so large a following in the conditions under which the drive occurred.

"Up to date $2,950 has been collected and we feel sure there are many dollars both for membership and contributions that are yet to be paid in by the friends of the Red Cross.

"The men too, should be remembered in this 'We thank you.' More than 20 men helped in canvassing the business district. The amount they brought in shows that the work was well done.

"Last of all we must thank the high school class who collected so much for us at the banks on the last Saturday. It was well done girls."

Oats Never Cooked so quickly

Instant Quaker Oats Cook in 3 to 5 minutes

Your grocer now has Instant Quaker Oats, as well as the style you know. Instant Quaker, perfected by our experts, is the quickest cooking oats in the world. It cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes.

Both styles have that exquisite flavor which has won the world to Quaker. Both are flaked from queen, grains only—just the rich, plump, flaky oats. In both we get but 16 pounds from a bushel.

But in Instant Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And the small thin flakes cook quickly.

If you want the Instant Quaker, look for 'Instant' on the label. You will get the quickest cooking oat flakes ever known.

Post-Office Here Receives First of New Stamps

The first of the new special delivery stamps have been received at the local postoffice. Prospects for getting other of the new stamp series, but the new 25-cent denomination before next spring, are slight, however, as the hundreds of thousands of stamps of the old series at Washington must all be used up before new ones are issued. Only a few are placed on sale at Washington, at certain spots connected with the stamp, as for instance, the Roosevelt stamp was first placed on sale at his former home, Oyster Bay, N. Y.

The new 13-cent special delivery stamps are bluish, similar in color and size to the old ones. Instead of a man peddling a bicycle, as if he was taking his time to deliver the letter, the picture now on the stamp shows the front door of a colonial style home, with a carriage parked at the door and a messenger handing a letter to the woman in the door-way. The picture, amounting to $1,000, received here is but a small one.

The government has announced that it is ready to issue the new 15-cent, 25-cent and 5-cent stamps, but it is stated here that only the 25-cent ones will be obtainable here before a number of months. The new 25-cent stamps are dark gray and have a picture of the Statue of Liberty; the 25-cent are green, with a picture of Niagara Falls, while the 15-cent stamps show the American Amphitheater, being Janesville.

Miss Margaret Bearden, secretary to Postmaster J. J. Cunningham, is spending a five-day vacation in Chicago.

Robert Bear and Joseph O'Hara, both postal employees, left for a hunting trip in the north Wednesday night, to be gone 10 days.

CELEBRATE 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Utters Corners—Friends and relatives helped Mr. and Mrs. George Roe celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary Saturday. The guests were entertained at a 1 o'clock goose dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Roe were married at the Lutheran parsonage here Nov. 4, 1897, and have resided on their farm ever since. They have two daughters, Misses Margaret and Adele. The bride of 25 years ago was presented with a bouquet of bridal roses by her cousin, George Rogers, Janesville.

Monday night they repeated the marriage ceremony at another celebration. Miss Mamie Roney played the wedding march and the couple were attended by Miss Evelyn Gehrmann and William Roe. L. Carrier acted as the clergyman.

A luncheon was served by the hostess. A rocking chair was presented by the guests.

MURDER OF YEAR AGO IS RECALLED

Brickson in Evansville on First Anniversary of Wife's Slaying.

Armistice day, November 11, forever memorable to the world as the date of the World war's end in 1918, will be recalled in Janesville for many years for something else—the anniversary of the murder of Mrs. Christiana Erickson, 62, one of the blackest and most cold-blooded crimes in the history of Rock county. Mrs. Erickson was slain at the door of her home near the County Club, Nov. 11, 1921, for a $40 check, by a hired man, to this day is still at large.

The first anniversary of the crime, Saturday, finds conditions considerably changed for Nels D. Erickson, husband of the murdered woman. He has disposed of the home where the murder was committed and his girl, now up his work as night-watchman at the Rock County Sugar company's plant here, the job at which he was engaged when his wife was so brutally struck down.

His home broken up by the loss of his wife, Mr. Erickson soon gave up the house rather than continue there facing the new order of things and having the event before him constantly. He exchanged the home for a house and two lots on Ringgold street, but he does not live there. Rather he continued on his job at the sugar factory until a month ago, when he moved to a room near the plant office.

Finding solace through keeping busy, Mr. Erickson was not long in finding work after leaving the factory job. He went to live at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Huvers, near the county farm, where he helped with the farm work. With work slackening there due to the approach of cold weather, he left Tuesday for the home of his other daughter, Mrs. Ross Keller, near Evansville, hoping to keep busy until he can obtain work at the Chevrolet plant here.

Silent About Crime. Mr. Erickson maintains an almost steadfast silence about the murder and ventures no opinion as to who was the slayer.

"He never talks about it any more," said George Huvers, his son-in-law. "He works hard, doing as much as a man much younger, and talks little. We never bring up the subject to him and he never lets his feelings be known."

As for the Bulpin best field worker, Frank Vermeersch, who was held as a suspect several weeks until freed by Judge George Grimm without the case going to the jury, he is believed to be still in jail. He was the only man arrested in connection with the crime and through the year that has followed no further evidence has been uncovered to lead to any other arrests.

Washington.—A federal revenue of approximately $415,000,000 this fiscal year from import taxes, or about $100,000,000 more than ever before was forecast by customs officials.

Washington.—The shipping board granted permission to transfer the registry of the steamships Reliance and Resolute from the American flag to the Panama flag.

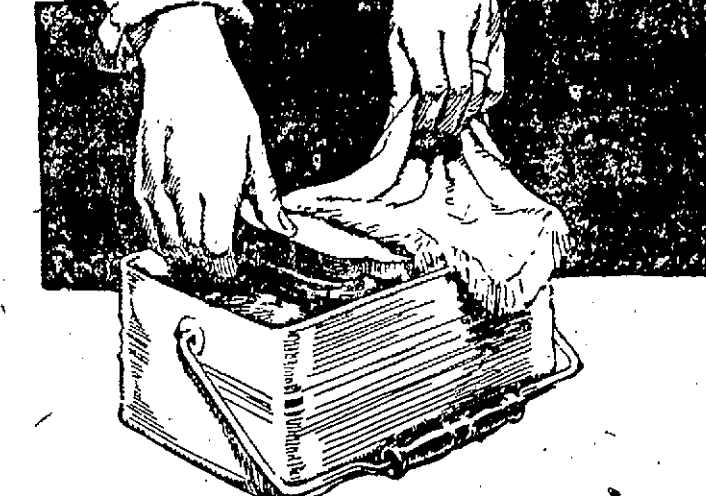

Fences Erected Along New Road

Extensive safety measures are being taken on the new Janesville-Evansville concrete highway, with the erection of heavy fences along danger spots, particularly where deep ditches parallel the road on either side. The fences will be painted white when completed to be more visible to motorists. Several stretches are being erected from the cemeteries north to the three-mile creek. From the bridge over the creek a section is being built to extend up the newly graded hill on either side.

Traverse City, Mich.—Authorities abandoned investigation of the death of Mrs. John Mattice, who disappeared two years ago and whose skeleton was found by hunters a few days ago.

Annapolis.—Twenty midshipmen narrowly escaped death in a fire on a submarine chaser.

Milton Abolishes Old Class Scrap

Milton—Milton college students sounded the death knell of class scraps Thursday, when they unanimously adopted a resolution abolishing the traditional freshman-sophomore battle and substituting for them a series of inter-college contests. The resolution was presented the previous Thursday by the sophomore class, through its president, Charles Sutton.

Public sentiment following the death of Roland Sayre, prominent sophomore and college athlete, resulted in the anti-rush legislation, promoted by the student body voluntarily without waiting for the faculty and trustees to take action. Sayre died Oct. 1 in Mercy hospital, Janesville, from injuries received in this year's rush.

Nocturnal street fights, automobile chases and other unedifying forms of scrapping are outlawed by the new rule, which provides penalties. The series of athletic contests to decide under-class supremacy will take place at the annual all-college picnic in September.

TEACH ECONOMICS, IS PLEA OF LEWIS

Washington Man, Before Twilight Club, Urges More Business Education.

More education, particularly along economic lines to teach the value of thrift and the dignity of honest labor, was urged by William Blather Lewis, education specialist of the National Chamber of Commerce, in a common sense talk before 150 members of the Twilight club at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night. It was the club's first meeting of the 1922-23 season.

The schools of America must teach three essential things, he declared—the value of a dollar, the dignity of honest labor, and the joy of doing a worthwhile job.

"American education needs the support of American business, and American business is absolutely dependent upon the product of American education," he said. "The most economical the most businesslike thing we can do is to train the rising generation of Americans to think and think straight."

Train for Foreign Trade.

The training of men for foreign trade through teaching in the schools the language actually spoken in the several countries and not grammar, was urged by Mr. Lewis who pointed out that America must have an outlet for her goods. In Russia in 1913 Mr. Lewis noted that German business men were making money because they knew the Russian language and customs whereas American business men were there were scarcely making any profit.

"We started out on a great thrift program during the war but all of a sudden the platform gave way and we had an orgy of extravagance," said Mr. Lewis. "After going without luxuries and saving money, the people like kids out of school, sold millions in Liberty bonds for the first time."

The extravagance was appalling, and business boomed. Then this great reservoir of savings gave out and we had the buyers' strike, factories shut down, stores went bankrupt and we had hard times. It was only natural. The greatest thing we can teach in the schools is the simple economic principle of sustained buying power.

Schools Open 365 Days.

"Children in the grades should be taught about investments, that the higher the rate of interest, the greater the gamble. Billions of money have been squandered by the people on valueless stocks and bonds simply because of ignorance. We all have done it. I have done it. When I want legal advice I go to a lawyer, when I want medical attention I go to a doctor, and now when I want advice about money I don't seek up an alley and buy a gold brick—I go to the financial experts of the city."

Five million people above the age of 10 years in the United States cannot write their own names, Mr. Lewis declared. He advocated opening the schools 365 days a year, rather than 160 days as now, for adults as well as child instruction and for the educational and social well being of the neighborhood. He urged that everyone rally to the support of the government and fight for its betterment, lest it be taken charge of by the destructive radicals.

MRS. JACOBS AGAIN SOCIETY PRESIDENT

Janesville Woman Re-elected President of Missionary Society Body.

[Special to the Gazette.]

Misses Mrs. George A. Jacobs, Janesville, was re-elected president of the Janesville district Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church at the Friday morning session of the 49th annual convention. Other 1922 officers are Mrs. W. S. Watson, Whitewater, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jennie Adkins, Elkhorn, recording secretary; Mrs. Ella Dodd, Milton Junction, treasurer. Superintendents of the various work are Mrs. A. D. Lowell, Sharon, literature; Mrs. A. E. Dierksen, Elkhorn, finance; Mrs. J. F. Turner, Janesville, young people; Mrs. Paul Parker, Janesville, extension secretary; Mrs. H. J. Lane, Fall River, singing secretary; Mrs. H. S. Clifton, Janesville, secretary of prayer; Mrs. L. Z. Robb, Janesville; Mrs. M. P. Edgerton, and Mrs. H. D. Adkins, Elkhorn, are group vice presidents.

A large sister loving cup was presented to the Young Women's society of Elkhorn by the Northwestern branch for having the greatest percentage of thirteenth.

The Janesville district pledged $5,000 to the Methodist conference for missionary work with goal of $5,000. The conference quota is $15,000.

Thursday morning, Miss Ella Dodd, Milwaukee, outgoing missionary to China, conducted the young people's hour, and the address was delivered by Dr. J. R. Doney, missionary to Java. He spoke of the Mohammedan menace and the persecution of the Christians.

The convention will close late Friday afternoon.

PROHIBITION PUT AMERICAN DOLLAR ON SOUND BASIS

Madison — The American issue, Wisconsin Edition (official organ of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league), prints a report by Wisconsin prohibitionists, as follows:

Prohibition has had a larger economic effect in the last three years in Wisconsin than either sugar, alcohol and probably than all other factors combined, in support of which we point out the following:

1. Prohibition took effect Jan. 15, 1919. This was the year of the highest prices, and the last seven months were marked by unemployment. Manufacturing and business enterprises wiped out their surplus and had to rely on selling bonds. The deposits in the regular banking department were greatly reduced, hence offered small change to the bond-sellers. The bond-sellers said, "Go to Wisconsin's savings deposits increased that year 25 percent. They filled up the hole made by the withdrawals from the other departments and piled up a net increase of fifty-six millions in addition to filling the hole—and that gain still continues—a 10 per cent increase again this year. The bonds were sightly, and multiplied thousands of increased savers depositors with their multiplied millions of increased savings deposits.

2. By purchasing these bonds the savings deposits saved the manufacturing enterprises from bankruptcy and receivership. Since this would have meant shut-downs, that at the same time saved their own jobs and pay envelopes.

3. Thus, prohibition savings gave the workmen a share in the industry.

4. Since the workers have a vested share in the industry, there is bound to be a growing understanding on the part of labor of the employers' problems, and a growing respect for and sympathetic consideration of the workers' viewpoint on the part of employers.

5. Prohibition started the nation on an ice cream spree, increasing the demand for Wisconsin's staple, milk. Prohibition savings started the building revival, helping the Wisconsin lumber industry, and strengthening government by promoting home-owning.

6. Prohibition has done as much as the war to put the American dollar above par.

Cissie Loftus Up on Dope Charge

London—Cissie Loftus, for more than 20 years a well known actress on the stages of Great Britain and the United States, was arraigned before the trial in police court and charged with being an unauthorized person in possession of morphine and atropine. She appeared in the courtroom, her counsel, she pleaded guilty to the charge and admitted the charges to bail and adjourned the case for a week.

WISCONSIN TOBACCO MARKET.

Edgerton.—The Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter Friday says:

"The interest in old packings continues. The 1922 leaf in Wisconsin is in the southern section as well as the lots held by growers on farm premises. The tobacco is in good shape and the remnants still unsold are eyed by interested parties. The same is true of the balance of the crop. The price of tobacco is high, but the growers know pretty well where the unsold goods is, the amount of it and the asking price of it."

"The toll in the 1922 campaign for non-pot tobacco is partly due to the fact that the growers are not getting over for leafy and quality crops. In the northern section better than 6,000 acres of tobacco not in the hands of growers have been sold by contract to Nov. 1. How large an acreage still unsold of non-pot tobacco is not known, but the estimates furnished by parties best acquainted in the northern field place it at 400 or better."

"In the southern counties, according to the best figures obtainable, about 750 acres were sold up to the 1st of November. The tobacco grades represented considerably more than one-half. This type has been bought by a section of southern, Ohio and Rock counties from Oxfordville, south to Mio, north. The prices for stemless vary between 6 and 8 cents according to the nature of the crops. For cigar leaf the 10 to 25 cent outside figures reported two weeks ago and the average price under the 15 cent mark."

"Two spells of moist weather have been very beneficial to hanging tobacco. The casing up, when felt and mild weather follows, adds to the final quality of the crop. The tobacco taken down of the curing and growers were seen after bundling are well pleased with the quality and finish of the crop. As soon as a damp or sufficient duration to give the tobacco the desirable kind of "case" visits the tobacco sections, then the growers will go to it in full earnestness."

"The headquarters of the pool have sent out printed notices to the stockholders advising them how the pool wants its tobacco stripped and banded. In those instances where there is nothing new or startling, unless it should be the request that the late tobacco should be stripped first. If all the growers will strip clean out and bundle their tobacco as well as the best handlers have done in the past, the tobacco will be satisfactory and this should be adopted for the permanent good of the trade."

OPENING OF 61 IS HIGHWAY FEATURE

Other Detours Eliminated During Week on State Trunk Roads.

[By Associated Press.]

Milwaukee — The week marks the opening of highway 61 to Elkhorn with the exception of 10 miles, concrete from Milwaukee to that point the Milwaukee Journal's tour department says in its weekly review.

The detour on highway 26 north of Watertown has been opened, also a short stretch on highway 29 from Hustisford west.

Highway 15 is open from Watertown to Waldo, but from Sullivan to Jefferson it is still closed, making that highway still inadvisable for travel.

To Madison the best all weather road is highway 19, although there are some rough stretches on it west of Marshall. Another combination which is somewhat longer but will give good roads is to Watkesha, 52 to Elkhorn, 50 to Watertown, 12 to Port Atkinson 106 to Albion, 100 to the intersection of 10 and 10 to Madison.

Highway 17, between Cedar Grove and Sheboygan, is under construction, the detour covering county trunk C to Sheboygan Falls and over to Sheboygan.

Highway 23 is still under construction from Fond du Lac to Rosendale.

Highway 36 to Burlington, 20 over to Elkhorn and 12 to Lake Geneva furnishes concrete with the exception of a six mile stretch around Spring Prairie.

To LaCrosse, 19 to Madison, 12 to Neenah and 21 to Watertown, 100 to Minneapolis, 15-47-15-11-12 is suggested.

J. H. S. Team Will See Badgers Play

Twenty-four members of the Janesville high school football squad will be the guests of the local Kiwanis club at the Wisconsin-Illinois homecoming football game at Madison, Saturday. The boys will make up in groups by motor car.

They have been apportioned as follows:

T. D. Hayes—Ray and Joseph

Leary; B. Fountain—Hahn and Walsh;

Otto Oestreich—Jersey Dickinson, Paul Young and Al Meek;

William G. Lathrop—Robert Howard, Thomas Dorrans and Charles Knapp;

Charles Case—Stewart Hummel and Quentin Bick;

Val Weber, Sr.—George Renaud, Harlan Bradford and Walter Nightengale;

Oscar N. Nelson—Clifford Conry, John Young and Goldwin Hallett;

Dr. J. J. Woodworth—Lawrence Bannison, Lyle Seeman and Willard Baker.

Boys who have not been seen or phoned by the club are asked to telephone the first thing Saturday morning to the men to whom they are assigned. The drivers of each car will have tickets.

The boys will be in charge of each sponsor and will return to Janesville in the same group they depart. They will sit in Box CC in the east stand.

1922 FOOD PRICES SLIGHTLY LOWER

Staple Articles Sell for Less—
Those Less Used Little Higher.

A comparison of prices on fruits and vegetables last year with that of Friday, shows that there is but little change, taking them altogether. Some articles have gone up this year, others are below last year's low prices. Taking them as a whole, prices are slightly lower this year, as it is the more staple articles that have decreased, and those less used that have advanced. Fruits were all much lower this past summer than that of 1921, some being but half the former price. The following table does not explain some facts. While it appears that apples have decreased only for the better varieties, it is true that all varieties have decreased some. Those most in demand are those selling at 5 cents a pound, while last year, the 5-centers were the cheapest apples, and the better ones for eating cost 7 and 8 cents. In the oranges, last year they were practically all one size, and sold for the prices shown. This year, there is a greater variety, with the 90 cent oranges much larger and better than the 60-centers. Bananas this year at 12 cents, include the red variety, while last year most stores were getting 14 for the ordinary yellow fruit.

Following is a table of comparative prices, those of 1922 are the first figures, second for 1921.

WOMEN POINT OUT SANATORIUM NEED

Is Necessary for Rock County, Speakers Tell County Women's Clubs.

In addition to addresses on home economics by speakers from the university extension division, 100 members of rural women's clubs of Rock county, meeting at the Presbyterian church here, Thursday, listened to an informative discussion of the tuberculosis sanatorium proposition by Miss Leona Deitrichson, superintendent of Jefferson county sanatorium, and Mrs. Fannie Munger, chairman sanatorium committee of the Rock County Federation of Women.

A number of women were enlisted who will interview their local supervisors on the subject before the county board meets next Tuesday.

Miss Deitrichson said the Jefferson county institution is now caring for 13 patients from Rock county, with seven on the waiting list, and that 19 Rock county patients had been refused admission the past year, owing to a lack of beds. She urged the humanitarian as well as financial side be considered by the tax payers, but said that a sanatorium extension worker, who has been helping the Rock county clubs, presided. Mrs. Smith, Brooklyn, gave three readings.

"The cost of maintenance is being reduced somewhat this year, as we have less in the way of additional equipment to purchase," she said. "The first year it cost us $19.57 a week to care for each of our patients. During the first three months of the second year the cost has been $17.19 per week. We have a 50 bed sanatorium, and now have it filled to capacity with many on the waiting list."

Mrs. Munger explained that the site for the sanatorium had already been purchased, and plans drawn up. A sanatorium built according to these plans would cost the same as four miles of concrete road, while the maintenance she said, will not exceed the cost of one mile of good roads.

Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones, state home economics leader, advised that nothing would be gained by postponement of the building of a sanatorium.

Mrs. Jones stated that a movement for a home demonstration agent in Rock county has been launched with Mrs. Spooner, Evansville, Mrs. Snyder, Clinton, and Mrs. Caldwell, Janesville, as the committee to work up interest.

Miss Hale, department of home management, gave a talk on interior decoration. Miss Anna Leitscher, county nurse, gave a report of work done by the child welfare special and explained the plans and purpose of the county health center established in Janesville.

Miss Sadie McNulty, university extension worker, who has been helping the Rock county clubs, presided. Mrs. Smith, Brooklyn, gave three readings.

TIME FOR THE TAXPAYERS OF THE CITY TO BE ON GUARD.

Janesville escaped a possible increase in its bonded debt by the defeat of the amendment to the state constitution permitting the increase in the debt limit when that debt was for the purchase of public utilities. It had been announced by the mayor of Janesville that he planned a scheme of finance which would permit the city to add at least $300,000 to the bonded debt for purposes not set forth in the constitutional amendment. By figuring the bonds, some $330,000 for the water works, under the new section of the constitution there would be a margin of that amount left available under the five percent limit for use for any purpose. Janesville is up to its bonded debt limit or so close that there is no working margin. For that reason schemes have had to be side tracked and laid over for some time. The necessity for economy is not one of choice by the city administration but perforce of necessity. We have much to show for the present bonded indebtedness, but that does not excuse other additions. The plan to take the water debt from the five per cent limit as it now stands and place it under the new debt limit to be provided by the constitutional amendment would simply mean the addition of so much more of a burden on the taxpayers of the city and be a temptation for additional expenditures by the present administration.

This probably accounts for the interest which the mayor took in having the city council approve of the amendment. Thanks however, to the voters would could not see any more taxes levied with the same complacency that the mayor did, they smothered the scheme, hip and thigh. Other voters in the state did the same thing. It might be well for such schemes to wait the selection of a city manager next spring when the plan voted by the people will go into effect. While it is known that the same interests which opposed the city manager plan last April have quietly announced that Mayor Welsh is to be that manager it still remains for the people of the city to decide upon a council of seven who in the end will determine the matter.

William Hale Thompson may be as Hale as he was before election but he is less hearty.

ONLY NEED MONEY TO HAVE ANOTHER WAR.

A citizen of Milwaukee has returned from Europe and in an interview has made some statements that are more than interesting. They carry the weight of an observing mind. One of these was that all Europe wanted now was money in order to start another war or series of wars. Jealousies, complaints of unfairness, peoples dissatisfied with the results of the war, the fact that few things were settled by the peace which finally came, have put the whole of Europe in a state where one is ready to leap at another's throat on the slightest provocation. Debt, deep and distressing debt, and the financial systems make war an impossibility. There is one grand hope. That is the possibility that great and generous and easy-going Uncle Sam will wipe all the debts off the slate so that other wars may be fought and money will be available for new armies and more munitions and equipment.

The most formidable barrier between European war is the wall of debt to the United States. One can imagine a day when the last penny is paid and Europe will be able to breathe freely and say, "Thank God—the God of the Kaiser—"now we can shoot up the world again!"

Returns from Jersey show that the Apple Jack is still a potent concoction.

WILL NEWBERRY RESIGN AS SENATOR?

Big or little, important or not as a genuine factor in government, the election of W. N. Ferris as senator from Michigan over Townsend, has brought the case of Truman H. Newberry strongly to the front as a further issue. There are many greater national matters at stake than Newberry, but it seems to have decided the fate of a senator up for reelection. Michigan voted against Townsend and at the same time selected a republican governor because Senator Townsend had stood up and defended Newberry against the charges which involved Newberry's right to his seat. Newberry was the issue in Newberry's home state and the only state in which the voters were really involved, or could have more than an academic interest. The voters decided against Newberry. There will be another contest in the U. S. senate. The senator-elect, Ferris, has declared that he will attempt to again raise the issue of the right of Newberry to his seat. But it is also said, and perhaps with no authority, that Senator Newberry contemplates resigning because of the election result.

We are of the opinion that this is a wise move to make. He can again offer himself for election with or without the immense primary fund expended in his behalf or retire to private life. He will at once have removed an issue which has been more of an excuse for radical attack than anything else. The gravity of the situation is that the very principle of free government was violated. Then he was found out, which appears to have been a greater crime. Others violate the law and are not found out. They do these things much more cleverly in Wisconsin with nonpartisan leagues and progressive clubs. The primary invites expense. It demands it. It takes great

New Tariff Begets Reprisals

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—The reprisals against the United States because of the protective tariff act recently passed by congress, which were predicted during its passage, have begun. Great Britain has struck the first blow and aimed it at the American rubber industry. It will be recalled that during the months when the tariff was pending, British interests protested against the high rates which would keep British products out of the American market. Delegations of business men from England appeared before the Ways and Means and the Finance committees asking lower rates. Their appeals were rejected. This amounted to a declaration of economic war. The United States erected a tariff wall to keep British goods out. Now Great Britain, in retaliation, is striking back at a very tender spot in the American industry.

The British have well advanced a plan to make the United States pay a vastly increased price for crude rubber. Not a pound of rubber grows on American soil. We must import all the rubber we need for the hundreds of thousands of automobiles, for electrical apparatus and for the hundred and one other uses to which this product is put.

The method being employed by Great Britain is to lay an export tax on the export of rubber from her possessions which produce this valuable commodity. Such possessions include the Island of Ceylon, the Straits Settlements and the Federated Malay States. These are the principal rubber producing areas of the world. Brazil produces rubber but because of a difference in quality and especially because of the manner of conditioning for export, the American rubber industry uses chiefly the product from the British rubber producing regions.

The United States consumes as much crude rubber as all the rest of the world put together, so any governmental action by Great Britain tending to increase its price is a direct blow at the United States. The tax must be paid to the government before the crude rubber can be exported, so the price of rubber laid down in the United States will be substantially higher. It is too early to make any definite estimates, but the rubber industry admits that the action of Great Britain will add millions of dollars a year to the American public's bill for this as well as for the numerous other rubber articles of every day consumption.

The American rubber industry is protesting vigorously against the action of Great Britain, but there is no reason to believe that Great Britain will pay any more attention to American protests than we paid to the British protests against the tariff. England protested against an American import tax; now the United States protests against a British export tax. Both protests are doomed to the same reception.

The economic result is that England will sell less goods in our market and that if we want British rubber we must pay the price whatever it is. The proverbial American spirit of fair play must say: "That's fair enough, but it is hard to stand when the dice needs new faces all around and when the boards come. In such a situation a nation teaches more about practical politics than a textbook."

Great Britain feels reasonably sure that the United States must have rubber no matter what it costs and she is well justified in such an assumption. Rubber is essential in so many manufactures and is so common an article of daily use that the people can not get along without it. Therefore, the price must be paid and England will collect.

England feels particularly comfortable about the rubber export tax because of the debt situation. It is an economic axiom that foreign balances can be paid only in three ways: in gold, in goods and in services. England is willing to pay us all the gold she can spare and recently sent over $50,000,000 of the yellow metal. More is coming. But she has not enough to meet her indebtedness. The next form is goods; she would be very glad to ship great quantities of goods to the American market and was prepared to do so when the congress put up the tariff barrier and declared that we would not accept goods. Payment in services is going on constantly; that is, British ships are carrying American goods, British hotels are entertaining American tourists, and American ships are obtaining British insurance. This is a tedious process.

Now while this situation obtains the American people at the same time are pressing for payment of the debt which Great Britain owes. She hasn't the gold, we won't take her goods; payment in services is slow; therefore, some other plan must be found.

There are some commodities which the United States does not produce but which the British Empire does. Accordingly the obvious thing to do is to raise the prices of such commodities. The United States must buy from Great Britain and pay handsomely. This is a way of meeting the debt.

This is precisely what is happening in the case of the rubber tax. We must have rubber. That is something the tariff does not keep out. Therefore Great Britain will pay us in rubber. She will not pay us a great deal of rubber for a given sum but a little rubber for a given sum. In this way the debt will be cut down.

The officials at Washington expect the plan to be extended. There are other commodities which Great Britain produces but of which we produce very little or none at all. This is one of these. It would not surprise official Washington to see Great Britain raise the price of her tin. To some extent, the price of tea could be raised although there the production of Japan and China would cut down the British monopoly.

The American protective tariff is built on the theory that the United States produces practically all the raw material she needs. That was especially true until rubber became so important an element in modern life. Rubber is the most versatile point of attack and that is the spot Great Britain picked out. There are not many others to find, but wherever there is a commodity of which Great Britain has anything like a monopoly and the United States has a lack, the American people can make up their minds to pay heavy toll.

What other nations will do in the way of reprisals against the American tariff has not been divulged as yet, but there is no doubt that any weakness in the American sources of supply will be taken full advantage of.

One element which restricts reprisals which the other countries can afford to make is the general consumption of most of their products.

sums of money to do even the trivial and trite things in a campaign. The most expensive—bitterly expensive—campaign is one of education, one to inform the voters. The primary may be the voice of the people but the voice is accompanied by a sharp ringing of the cash register bell. That statement goes for radical, socialist, communist, progressive, farmer-labor, or democratic. Mr. Newberry should be willing to sacrifice himself on the altar of his party now that he has narrowed its margin of power by retiring. Michigan has called him home by a rather emphatic vote.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

HERE WE ARE, THE THROG OF US

Here we are, the throg of us,
The clever, wise and strong of us;
The loiter at his bench by day,
The banker with his gold,
The mother with her lullabies,
The dreamer gazing at the skies,
The painter and the poet and
The warrior brave and bold.

Here we are, the crowd of us,
The humble and the proud of us,
Together for a space of years
Upon this good old earth;
Companions on the ship of Time,
All sailing to a brightish end,
And all of us arriving through
The gateway known as birth.

Here we are, the great of us,
The twisted and the straight of us,
The weak the tall, the muscled arm,
The timid and the brave,
And each of us with work to do
Before the span of life is through,
And each of us to come at last
Upon the silent grave.

Oh, call it life, or what you will,
And choose whatever spot you will,
We stand or fall together
By whatever road we take,
We share alike the joy and pain,
The bitter loss, the golden gain,
For what the world is yet to be
The multitude must make.

We're born alike, we die alike,
For happiness is but a name,
If life shall seem to us, and sin
The hell shall crush us all.
The rich, the poor, the great, the low
Must live up to the best they know,
For should disaster strike the world
Together we shall fall.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

Civic pride, of course, is a wonderful thing, but some towns have been civic-pride to death. They have had civic pride to the exclusion of everything else. There were no sidewalks worth mentioning, houses were painted once in fifty years, the drainage system was so poor that water stood in the streets for a week after a rainstorm, a stranger was about as welcome as a case of smallpox at Ellis Island, and the city of other Thursday, the city of other folks got together two or three times a week and whooped "up" for civic pride. It is perhaps a good thing that these towns have civic pride, however. A town must have something.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

HOW TO RELAX AND LET GO

To vary the old saying slightly, a sound mind cannot work well in a sick body. For instance, a doctor who attempts to treat his own illness has a real test for a patient, for illness necessarily impairs one's reason and judgment. Decorum forbids qualification of the layman who undertakes to be his own physician.

As I have repeatedly pointed out, most people seem to be seeking good health. They are willing to try anything, from hypophosphites to a sea voyage that purports to give one better health. Such impulses that they have indignant health or do not enjoy good health. The average health standard is about 70 per centum. From the perfect state of health, or health plus, which one is destined to enjoy on down to 70 per cent or less are all gradations, covering a multitude of popular symptoms and minor ailments. Some people are content with a 70 per centum standard, especially assuming incalculable friends that they are "not complaining." From the 70 per centum standard upward and downward for 10 to 20 points is the field of so-called "functional" maladjustments. There is no real difference between a "functional" ailment and an "organic" one, but merely an arbitrary distinction sometimes made by the kind doctor to soothe a patient's mind, which one is disturbed of function, and function is not disturbed unless something is wrong with the organ. So all disease is functional as well as organic, and if the organic disturbance is confined in some instance, it is nevertheless bad policy for one to give himself to require attention if it is "merely functional."

A great many individuals with health standards of from 50 to 70 per centum feel that their "nerves" are in some way to blame, and they wish they could relax their nerves. They mean their friends advise, but try as they will they just can't let go. They generally assume that they live under such "high tension" what with domestic, business or professional responsibilities and all that sort of thing that relaxation is impossible. Some of our old time "neurologists," always with a keen eye for business, helped along this joke at every opportunity, upholding a lot of ponderous nonsense about the "wear and tear of the strenuous life on the nervous system"—the strenuous life applying to business, social, domestic or any other life a well-to-do person might happen to lead. It is funny how seriously some of these "strenuous" folk take themselves.

The way to relax a "high tension" nervous system—assuming there is any such thing—most certainly is the way to relieve the feeling which you interpret as a demand for relaxation is very, very simple. You just take a hoe, a scythe, an axe, a tennis racket, a baseball bat or a pair of comfortable, sturdy brogans and go out and sweat—or stay indoors and sweat if you must—but anyway sweat an equivalent of two miles of oxygen.

on the old fog three times a day. If you try this medicine you will have no trouble in "relaxing."

Something seems to tell me that the foregoing prescription for this tension feeling will be badly misinterpreted by some readers who will probably go and take a Turkish bath or something of the kind in the vain hope of finding the desired relief without any exertion. To any who entertain such hope I say this: You hire anyone to take your exercises for you or to rub it in. That is the exact drawback about exercise as a "remedy." We have indignant health or do not enjoy good health. The average health standard is about 70 per centum. From the perfect state of health, or health plus, which one is destined to enjoy on down to 70 per cent or less are all gradations, covering a multitude of popular symptoms and minor ailments. Some people are content with a 70 per centum standard, especially assuming incalculable friends that they are "not complaining." From the 70 per centum standard upward and downward for 10 to 20 points is the field of so-called "functional" maladjustments. There is no real difference between a "functional" ailment and an "organic" one, but merely an arbitrary distinction sometimes made by the kind doctor to soothe a patient's mind, which one is disturbed of function, and function is not disturbed unless something is wrong with the organ. So all disease is functional as well as organic, and if the organic disturbance is confined in some instance, it is nevertheless bad policy for one to give himself to require attention if it is "merely functional."

Q.—When were cranberries first served with turkey? J. H. H.

A.—American cranberries were found growing wild by the early pilgrims. It is thought they served them with wild turkey on Thanksgiving days, and for this reason have become associated with turkey and Thanksgiving day. Cranberries make a tart sauce for jelly. These are palatable with meat, and contain relatively large amounts of mineral matter, especially iron, calcium, and phosphorus which are valuable in the diet.

Q.—Were bicycles used in England or the United States first? J. V. H.

A.—The bicycle was introduced into England about 1873 and into the United States in 1877.

Q.—How does the refraction of the earth's atmosphere alter the apparent position of the sun? J. L. L.

A.—The astronomical observer says the refraction due to the earth's atmosphere causes the sun to appear slightly higher in the sky than its true position. The maximum elevation of the sun above the horizon is at the horizon, is about equal to the sun's apparent diameter.

Q.—Who made the first steam engine? G. H.

A.—The first instance of the use of steam as a motive power is assumed to have been the Aeolipile of Hero of Alexandria. In 1543 a Spanish captain, Blas de Garay, is reported to have shown a steamboat of his own invention in Barcelona harbor. The first use of the application of steam power to machines was taken up by Thomas Savery in 1698. Watt's experiments on the steam engine date from the year 1769.

"The Floors Must Be Fixed"

Just at this time of the year new coverings for the floors must be put on. Perhaps the floors must be re-finished.

If you know enough about it, you could do most of it yourself. The Department of Agriculture has prepared a booklet, "How to Repair and Refinish Floors," how to finish, stain and care for floors, all about rugs, carpets and other coverings, and how to take care of them.

If your floors or carpets need any attention this year, this booklet will be a great help. It is entirely free. Our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below. Enclose two cents postage. Write your name and address clearly.

Hard Fight Marks Hooper Campaign

Milwaukee.—Mrs. Jessie Jack Hooper, Wisconsin's Democratic independent aspirant for U. S. senator, fought for her cause in the face of Senator La Follette's powerful organization, but it was defeat which her champions describe as "noble, nerve-unparalleled in the political annals of Wisconsin and the nation," supporters rally with pride around the fact that, without large campaign funds and unsupported by a great party organization, she fought a good battle against a machine whose personal leadership is unexampled.

Where Wisconsin men, political leaders in the fight against La Follette, threw up their hands and quit, Mrs. Hooper stepped in to lead the shattered remnants. For years a national leader in the fight for woman suffrage, this Oshkosh woman carried the political territory, announced she was unafraid of her opponent, and extensively campaigned all over the state in behalf of her principles.

The Black Menace

A CRAIG KENNEDY STORY

By ARTHUR B. REEVES.

The story of the Black Menace has to do with the fortunes of Clara Kennedy, ward of a respectable uncle, who after a long and eventful life, has been left behind by the Black Menace. There is enough evidence to show that the Black Menace is a real thing, and that it is not a mere fancy of the imagination. The story is told by a companion and friend of Clara's, who is a detective and a chemist. The story is told in a way that is both interesting and informative. It is a story that is worth reading.

It was the chance we sought and at once we opened on them with a volley of bullets directed at the lower part of the car and aimed at the tires. Speed watched nervously and I noticed that he was the only one who did not fire. He said nothing, but I could see that Clara's safety was the sole thought in his mind.

There was no need of another volley. From the car itself we could hear an explosion, as though one of our bullets had hit an explosive. The car ahead swerved. One of the rear tires, by a lucky chance, had been hit and had exploded.

Off the road the driver of the car deliberately shifted it into a clump of bushes, bumping on the flat shoe. It was now only a matter of seconds for us to sweep down and follow out the deep-cut tire tracks.

Our driver had no need of brakes, as the car plowed through the soil up to the hubs, the engine stalled. Ahead of us only a few feet, we could see the other car.

We leaped out and piled after the abandoned motor. Speed and Kennedy leading, with a shout of triumph. In the back of the car was Clara herself, half fainting.

Speed jumped into the car and bent over Clara as she lay huddled on the back seat where her captors had abandoned her. In fear that we might overtake them if they delayed to any further.

"They seized me—I tried to break away—but there were five of them," she murmured.

"What did they look like? Who were they?" questioned Kennedy. Could you recognize any of them?"

She shook her head. "They were masked and in long coats—with the collars pulled up over their faces. I saw there were five of them. One of them looked like that Mexican Jacques," asked Speed.

"Perhaps—I cannot tell." "Which way did they go—toward the harbor?"

"Yes—I heard them say something about a boat." Clara was reviving in the excitement of the rescue. We pressed forward, leaving Speed with her, his arm about her and helping her to follow more slowly.

The trees thinned out and we saw that we were coming to what was a sort of cove opening into the harbor head itself.

As we approached, it was evident that our delay with Clara had given them just the seconds they needed. The Black Menace had hidden a boat in the cove. It was high tide and he was having no trouble in getting away, which might not have been the case when the tide was low uncovering much of the cove as flats of mud.

Already he was in the boat, the engine had been started, the anchor hauled up, and he was gathering headway as he approached the entrance to the cove, rounding out into the harbor and away.

We stood on the shore and made the party out. We saw that it was the same gray cruiser which he had used the time when he had escaped from Clara and Speed.

There was only one thing to do and that was to find another boat in which we could pursue. Yet down here, away from the activity of the town, there were no boats at anchor. We stood on the shore helpless.

Out across the water, however, we could hear a speedboat which a boy was handling, evidently just to see what he could do with her. Kennedy raised his gun and fired a volley into the air, to attract his attention. Then we all waved and together sent up a shout at him.

He did not understand, but evidently for the lack of the thing, brought his speedboat about and headed it at us.

Further and further the gray cruiser melted into the distance, turning the point and about to disappear around it into the Sound bearing to the east whence there were more ways of escape.

"What do you want?" shouted the boy through a megaphone.

Kennedy clapped his hands to his mouth to megaphone back. "Rent us the boat—name your own price."

The boat shot in as close to the shore as he could without grounding. Kennedy did not wait, but waded out, and he did not stop to decipher the meaning of the boat's coming. Speed and I between us followed Clara out to the boat.

At last we were ready and our boat shot out across the water, cutting the waves like a knife.

Not much was said, but our boat was indeed the faster of the two, for as we rounded the point we could see the gray cruiser not so far ahead. Speed grew more and more excited as we headed after it and it became evident that we were gaining. Nor could I blame him. Would the Black Menace repeat his former performance and try to shoot us up perhaps with the gas tank this time, but one of us.

This time if he attempted any shooting we were better prepared than Jack and Clara had been alone. We were more heavily armed, and with more people. In such a case, the Black Menace must inevitably be brought down himself.

"It's a race he's looking for," cried the boy gleefully, "my boat outlasts his."

"It's a race, all right," encouraged Kennedy, "and if you beat him, we'll all make up a purse."

The boy handled his boat splendidly. We overhauled the gray cruiser gradually and as we drew closer could see that it was a low, slim craft, not of the high-decked type, but with a small hunting cabin in which evidently one of the party had taken refuge.

The Black Menace veered off, but it was of no use. We were plainly overtaking him now.

I saw one figure duck down under the stern. We covered ourselves as best we could, expecting him to fire. Kennedy did not wait. His gun cracked and we could see that the bullet had made a hit on the coming of the boat.

The Black Menace, or at least the lone figure, redoubled his efforts. Was it another Coston signal gun and flare he was preparing to set off?

CHAPTER 18 THE SMOKE SCREEN

As our boat forged ahead, we waited, expecting some devilish attack, either shooting or perhaps a bomb. Instead, the Black Menace rose for an instant over the side of his boat and threw overboard what looked like a small square box.

Instantly I thought that, perhaps, he was trying to lighten the draught of his cruiser, especially so when, a few seconds later, he rose again and threw over another box.

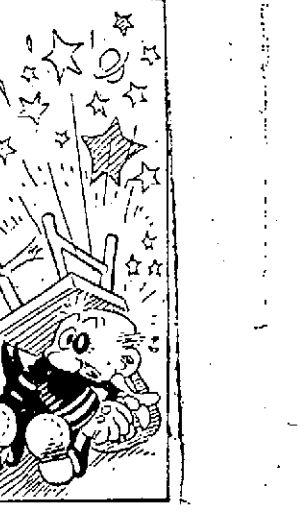

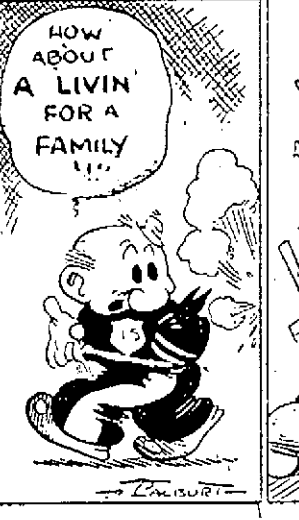

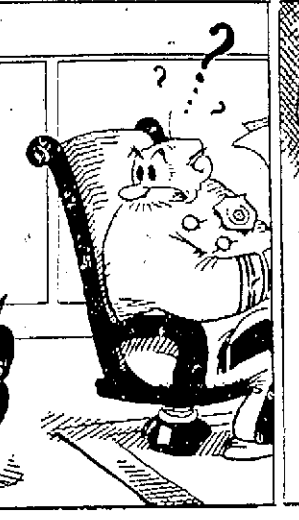

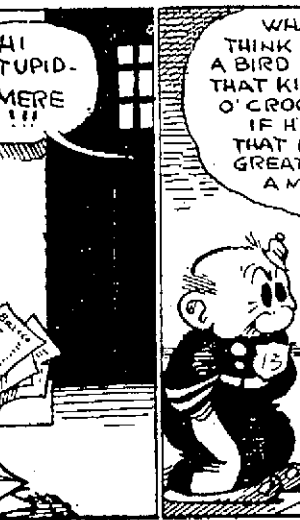

"Look!" exclaimed Clara quickly. The water about the spot where he had thrown over the first box had begun actually smoking, throwing up a thick white, billowing haze, and as we looked, from the second box another cloud of haze arose.

The wind took the two rapidly spreading clouds and wafted them together while the heavy haze mushroomed out over the water.

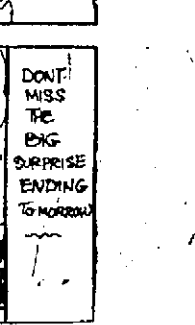

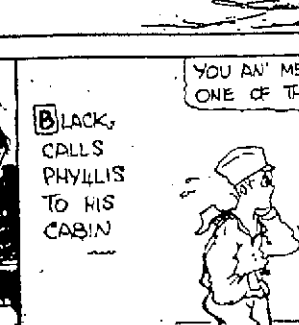

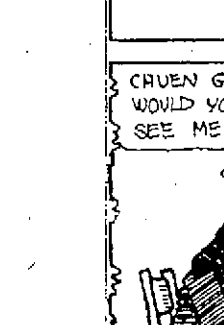

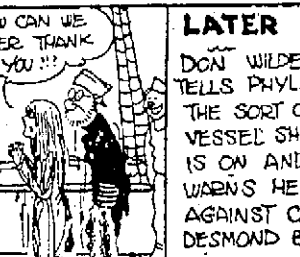

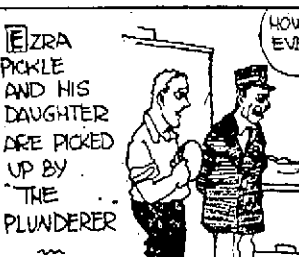

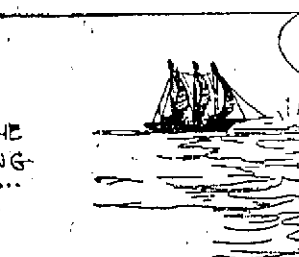

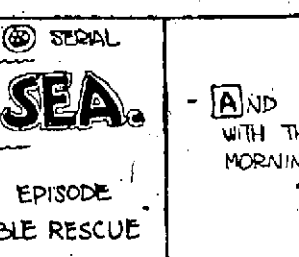

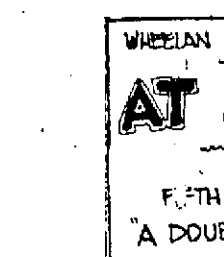

Other boxes must have been thrown overboard, for the smoke became thicker, spreading in all directions, but hanging low. We ran into it before we knew it and found that now we were going blindly ahead as if in a maze, our only sense of direction being the compass.

Community Comment

FLORENCE SLOWN MYDE, Editor.

This department of the Janesville Daily Gazette is published in the interest of all Community work in Southern Wisconsin.

CHILDREN'S BOOK WEEK IS NATION-WIDE PROJECT

Children's Book week originated in 1919 and is a national project which will be observed this year from Nov. 12 to 18.

Children's Book week is recognized the country over as the one week every year when schools, public libraries, book stores, boy scout troops, club churches, magazines and newspapers turn attention of boys and girls and their parents to books.

The taste for good reading must be cultivated in our children if the present trend toward trashy literature is to be overcome. There are plenty of good books that thrill and inspire and entertain, but there are not always the books we hear about. One of the purposes of Children's Book week is to call attention to the long list of really fine books that children and young people will enjoy reading. Another aim is to promote the idea of more books in the home for the use of both children and adults.

The Gazette desires information about Children's Book week activities in all communities in southern Wisconsin.

For the benefit of school teachers and community leaders who may not have received literature from the national committee in charge of the movement, the following suggestions may prove helpful:

In high schools the week may be called "Good Book week." An assembly hour during the week may be devoted to a book program.

Both grade and high school pupils may write essays about their favorite books or book characters. The best essays may be read at an assembly as part of the book week program, or at the next meeting of the parent-teacher association.

Art classes may make posters, or better still, book plate designs which each pupil will use in his or her own books. Having one's own book plate design may stimulate a desire to have more books in which to put the design.

Manual training classes may make simple book cases for home libraries. Book stores should have special exhibits of children's books, and advertise special sales during the week.

Public libraries should have special exhibits and distribute book lists. Women's clubs, parent-teacher associations, civic organizations and churches may discuss book topics at regular or special meetings. The General Federation of Women's clubs assigns all clubs to observe Children's Book week.

A community book party may be given. Plans for such a party will be sent by the community editor to any one who will send a request with a self-addressed stamped envelope enclosed.

URGENT LOCAL OBSERVANCE OF NATIONAL CANCER WEEK

Dr. C. A. Harper, secretary of the state board of health, is co-operating with the National Society for the Control of Cancer in arranging community meetings to be held during national cancer week, Nov. 12-18. Dr. F. W. Leeson, Beloit, president Rock County Medical association, may be called upon to be a featured speaker for the meetings in the county. More people over 40 years of age die of cancer than of pneumonia, tuberculosis, or typhoid fever. One woman in eight and one man in 24, over 40, dies of cancer. The object of national cancer week is to educate the public to the fact that cancer can be cured in its early stages, and to spread information concerning its early detection. Literature on this subject may be obtained from the Wisconsin state board of health.

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

A RED NOSE

I once knew a girl whose entire life was ruined because her nose would turn red with no provocation at all. In her case it was not due to indigestion nor to ordinary troubles. She tried dieting and she tried laxatives until her physician warned her to stop. She tried any amount of expensive powders, liquid and dry, until her family worried she had any kind of skin disease. She tried daily that disastrous combination of a heavy coating of powder over vanishing cream.

There is more sluggish here than at any other place) it seems logical that any relief must come by relieving this congestion, that is, by stimulating the circulation at this point.

I therefore advise washing the nose and the skin around it with very hot water, hold the hot face cloths over it until it is much redder. Then the skin should be rinsed with very cold water or rubbed with a piece of ice or bathed with a good astringent. Liniment of benzoin will do nicely. Or the nose should be massaged gently from top to tip with the fingers and tapped all over. Frequent spraying with toilet ammonia is another valuable hint.

Styes—This condition generally indicates a run down state and recurrent attacks of styes are a warning that you should rest more. Consult your doctor about this.

Mabel—It is impossible to state how long it will take for you to hear to fully recover, as much depends upon the condition of your own health.

Theresa—It will take too much space to print the formula for the creams at this time but I will be glad to mail them to you on receipt of a. s. a. c. repeating your request.

Saturday—Small Blemishes.

ing cream until black pores on the nostrils warned her that she was clogging her skin.

There was no trace of catarrh, a frequent cause of red nose, and she lived a healthy outdoor life. She found some relief by massaging the nose. Finally she outgrew the trouble. It disappeared as mysteriously as it came. My personal opinion is that it was due to her improved health as she matured, though it is very hard to tell in a case like this for a chronic red nose is a mysterious complaint.

Of all the current remedies there are only two in which I have any faith. As the immediate cause of this redness is the congestion of blood in the veins of the nose (the circulation

TODAY'S RECIPES—Pittsburgh Potatoes—Place in cast-iron one pint potato cubes, boiled (not too tender), and two chopped sweet peppers. Make a cream sauce of one pint milk, one-quarter pound mild cheddar, grated, one tablespoon flour and one teaspoon the top with chopped bacon and bake until brown.

Corn Pudding—One-half can of corn, one cup milk, two eggs, two teaspoons corn starch, one tablespoon butter, salt and pepper. Separate the eggs, beat yolks, add melted butter, corn starch, salt and pepper. Then add corn and milk and last the white of eggs, beaten stiff. Bake about forty minutes.

Winter Salad—One cup cabbage, shredded; one small bottle stuffed olives, chopped; one green pepper, chopped; one-half cup nut meat. Mix all with mayonnaise. Sprinkle top with chopped pepper and garnish with parsley.

Quick Coffee Cake—Cream one-quarter cup butter. Add three-quarter cup sugar, one egg (beaten), one-half cup milk, two cups of flour with two teaspoons baking powder. Beat well and pour into buttered pans. Spread with melted butter, chopped nuts, sugar and cinnamon. Bake about twenty minutes.

NEW HELPS—NEW INTEREST

Every mother knows the magic of a new toy—knows how the toy that possesses new and untold possibilities keeps the child's attention and makes play time pass without complaint.

Doesn't the same thing hold true with other toys?

Isn't it often true that a new device for doing housework, a new cooking utensil, will sometimes prove worth many times its original cost because of the stimulus it gives the worker?

Dinner and then Coffee at the Congress

Food of the best, skillfully prepared into tempting, delicious dishes served amidst the most pleasing surroundings—that's the Congress. Everyone knows of the Congress in Chicago. Everyone knows that to dine there is to dine well, but that no dinner is quite complete without a cup of that delicious excellent coffee.

Thousands of guests have gone to their homes and raved about that coffee—the coffee that made a perfect finish to a perfect dinner.

And it was Thomas J. Webb Coffee, of course.

You may have this same good coffee in your home—just get it from your grocer. You pay no more for it than for ordinary coffee. In fact, it is an economical coffee, for you get more cups to the pound. Try it!

FINISH HEATING PLANT AT NEW H. S.

Boiler Rooms and Monster Stack Erected—Expect Completed Job, Jan. 1.

Viewed from the rear, the new high school building, now rapidly nearing completion, looks like a city in itself—the main building towering up with its straight rows of windows, then the boiler rooms of various shapes, with an immense stack projecting from one, and the gymnasium projecting on the side. Uniform brick and uniform construction makes the rear present a neat appearance. And the rear is very noticeable, facing open, as it does, the river at Racine street bridge. Crossing Racine street bridge, one gets a much better idea of the immensity of the building than from Main street.

Work on the stack was completed Wednesday, and with the boilers already in, practically everything is ready now for a fire to heat the building. And it will soon be necessary, especially for the dorms on the east side, to plaster work on the ceiling of the auditorium, which is to seat 1500 people.

Ready for Heating.
Radiators are practically all set, and all that remains is the installation of what is called the breechings to connect the boilers with the large stack. No coal is in the large bins, but it is expected the contractor will heat the building until his work in it is completed. It will take five days or more to dry out the brick of the boilers before the whole building can be heated.

There will be direct and indirect heat. Radiators will give indirect heat, while there are in addition three immense fans to heat by means of hot air, sucked from 100 feet in the air, so that it is pure. One will heat the entire plant, with the exception of the auditorium and the two gymnasiums. Another will heat the auditorium, and the third the gymnasiums.

To Finish Job Jan. 1.

"Everything points to the building being completed and ready for occupancy the first of January," said Superintendent O. Holt, Wednesday. The various contractors are working to the limit, and if nothing slips, the first of the year will see a completed building, as close as the members of the board of education and myself have been to the construction, we even are going to be greatly surprised at the intricate detail of the whole thing."

Of the three car-loads of marble necessary in the various rooms, two have arrived, and are being installed. The sidewalks on the south and east entrances have been started, and the terrazzo on the first floor is being started with the completion of it on all the others. This work will be done on the stairway of the cafeteria.

Work on installing the lockers will start Nov. 15, and the ornamental plasterers will start on the east side of the balcony. The auditorium, equalling in beauty any theater auditorium in towns many times larger than Janesville, will be a real gem in a plain white, with the beautiful work on the beams and walls, and the beautiful stage proscenium.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been developed by the U. S. Government and is being distributed to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise, pumps up, is simple, clean, safe, burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, P. D. Johnson, 600 W. Lake St., Chicago, is offering to send a lamp and a copy of the patent, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

$36,893,700 FOR ROADS THIS YEAR

Highway Construction and Maintenance Figures are Compiled.

Madison — Highway construction and maintenance in Wisconsin for the present year will cost approximately $36,893,700, the legislative committee of the county boards' association says in its summary of highway expenditures, to be submitted to the county boards Nov. 14.

County funds provide $10,351,000 of the total available money for highway expenditures in the state. Town funds $10,325,800, state funds $5,545,300 and federal funds $1,050,000. The report says that the figures do not include funds expended on city streets which are raised in the municipalities.

County funds totaling $10,351,000 were raised for the following purposes: federal aid road construction $1,050,000 from a direct county tax; state aid roads $3,214,700 from a direct county tax; state aid roads $9,211,700 from bond issues, state highway maintenance $371,000 from direct tax; county highway maintenance $1,374,100 from direct tax; county highway maintenance $1,374,100 from motor vehicle fees; county aid roads and bridges $1,050,000 from a direct tax; machinery, supervision and miscellaneous $1,471,000 from a direct tax.

Towns raised $8,600,000 from a direct town tax for town road construction and maintenance; $1,050,000 from a direct tax for county aid roads and bridges and $694,000 from a direct tax for state roads.

The $5,545,300 raised by the state came from the following sources: federal aid road construction $1,050,000 from a direct state tax; federal aid road construction $1,050,000 from motor vehicle fees; state aid roads and bridges $1,050,000 from motor vehicle fees; state highway commission $1,050,000 from motor vehicle fees.

Federal funds of $1,050,000 came from federal taxes, the report shows.

More Funds Raised
The cost of maintaining the state trunk highway system is supposed to be paid by the state out of motor vehicle fees, the report says. "As a matter of fact, this fund is not sufficient for the purpose and additional funds are being raised from year to year by the counties through taxes on property."

The counties now maintain over 9,500 miles of county trunk highways in addition to the state trunk highways within the counties. The cost of this maintenance in 1922 is about $2,350,000. In this instance also the motor license fees are not sufficient for the intended purpose. The counties in 1922 had $978,800 returned to them out of the motor license fees collected in the fiscal year so that the cost of county trunk maintenance $1,374,100 was furnished out of the county taxes on personal property.

Counties Are Active
The counties and towns together must provide at least $1,274,000 to meet the state aid, while as a matter of fact they provided about $2,908,700 by direct taxation in 1922 and a further sum of $9,211,700 in bond issues. This indicates clearly that the counties are making highway improvement much more active than the state law demands, as in the present year they have provided $11,245,400 not required by the amount of state aid received.

NEW PLAN OFFERED TO BOOM BUILDING

Would Enlarge Madison Loan Company to Cover This Section.

Home building is the principal cities of Southern Wisconsin would have its greatest boom if a plan being worked out successfully in Madison, now could be extended to other cities as proposed, declared E. J. Samp, Madison, secretary of the Commonwealth Mortgage & Bond company in an address before the Builders' Exchange in West Side Odd Fellows' hall, Thursday night. Mr. Samp's proposal is not to start new companies in the several cities, but to expand the Madison company to a large private corporation, operating throughout Southern Wisconsin, to build an enlarged building and loan association but with more advantages. The present corporation is modeled after companies in Cleveland and Detroit which have contributed much to the rapid growth of those two cities, Mr. Samp said.

"The company is proving a success in Madison in providing the necessary financial machinery for those who would not otherwise be able to build homes," continued the speaker. "The home builders make their payments on the monthly installment plan and we make loans of from 50 to 80 percent on the value of the house."

"The company has an advantage over the building and loan association in that it has a larger reserve whereas the latter association is limited. This company has the power to turn its capital to the issuance of small denomination bonds for sale throughout the district, making it possible to bring in foreign capital whereas the building and loan association is confined to the city in which it operates for its marketing of securities."

"Building and loan associations can't borrow from banks because they are under control of the state banking commission. As a result their funds are used up fast and they reach a limit, whereas this company can supply the home builder with 20 to 25 percent of the cost of his home and give him the remaining 50 percent through borrowing from the banks. The company would thus be able to accomplish much more and aid more people than the ordinary building and loan association, because its own finances would not be used up so rapidly."

Summing up his talk, Mr. Samp gave the two greatest advantages of such a company over a building and loan association, namely its power to utilize money from banks and bonds, and the bringing in of foreign capital to help build homes. No city can do it alone, he said. It must be a union of several cities in one private corporation. He likened the proposition to the Modern Housing corporation organized by local citizens, declaring it to be better in that the speculative aspect is not there, that the company leaves building to the builders and does not attempt to do it itself.

Middies Periled by Fire on Boat

Annapolis—Twenty midshipmen from the United States naval academy narrowly escaped death Thursday afternoon when, in a heroic battle against fire, they fought their way up the Chesapeake bay on a sub chaser. The boat was finally beached on the shore of the naval experimental station.

The midshipmen started out early for a seamanship drill. A ban two miles off shore the engine backfired. Before the men realized what had happened the forward part of the vessel was enveloped in flames. The midshipmen took their stations at the hose lines and formed bucket brigades as the flames spread. A stiff breeze augmented the danger.

Heroically the midshipmen fought every foot of the way. On the wharves at Annapolis a crowd gathered. Light craft set out to offer assistance. Cheers arose from the beach when the midshipmen beached their boat, which was burned beyond repair.

"THE NIGHT CAP"

Reminiscent of "The Rat" without the continuous thrill which comes with that first of the mystery plays since which we have had several, "The Night Cap" was presented to a large audience Thursday night at the Alhambra theatre. While this is the play which had so long a run in Chicago, yet, except in spots here and there, it was not well acted in Janesville. It seemed that the men and women both on the stage had trouble with their lines. James Nelson, as Jerry Hammond, the zany bank director, was a laugh in every line. "The Night Cap" is a melodrama, filled with bank calculations, threat of suicide, the eternal triangle, murder, police, a coroner, a shot in the back, a bank robbery and, suggested thriller from start to finish. The play is a thriller in every line. "The Night Cap" is a melodrama, filled with bank calculations, threat of suicide, the eternal triangle, murder, police, a coroner, a shot in the back, a bank robbery and, suggested thriller from start to finish. Close Sunday Movies; Old Memphis Law Good

Memphis.—Injunction proceedings seeking to prevent the operation of moving picture theatres on Sunday were upheld in a chancery court decision in which the contention of the defense was that the Tennessee Sunday observance law, passed in 1902, would not apply to modern day amusements. The chancellor held that the law and subsequent supreme court decisions would warrant the issuance of the injunction. It was stated an appeal would be taken.

could fail in love with a type like Anne Maynard as portrayed by Patricia Moore. But it happens every day. We are glad to have a play like "The Night Cap" come to Janesville. SMITH CHALLENGED TO MOISTEN STATE

New York.—In a letter to Governor Eliot Alfred E. Smith, William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, declared Mr. Smith's election would prove an ultimate benefit to the prohibition forces and invited him to start at once in an attempt to carry out the pledge of the democratic platform for beer and light wines. "If you think this is a bluff, we cordially invite you to call it," he said.
